Disraeli and Gladstone in Debate.
[From Justin McCarthy's Correspondence with the New York Mail.]

LONDON, February 10.—I was present the other night when Gladstone made his great bid for popularity by denouncing the American claim for "consequential damages." As the speech has pretty nearly set this country in a flame, I may ask a little of your space to describe the speech, the debate and the scene. The House was crowded to excess, for everybody knew that Disraeli would draw out the Government on the subject, and that Gladstone would say something strong.

Disraeli led off. His speech was immensely clever. It had a fine show of patriotism about it, and of unselfish readiness to support the Government for the sake of the country, while all the time it continued to throw the whole blame of everything on the Government, and especially on Gladstone. One must be well acquainted with the House of Commons' style to endure most of its speakers, and Disraeli's mannerisms transcend those of anybody else. He talks in a sepulchral voice. He stammers and boggles and halts at irregular intervals in the middle of every sentence, and interjects that odious "aw, aw," which English speakers seem unable to get rid of. His gestures are angular, constrained and awkward. I have heard a few public speakers in various countries in my time, and I therefore record my former declaration that the manner of Mr. Disraeli is the most utterly detestable that has ever come under my notice. But for all that his speech was very clever, ingenious and effective, and Disraeli is a perfect master of phrases. He never speaks without bequeathing some happy phrase, to be quoted again and again in and out of the House. He spoke as he always does, standing behind the table on which the mace lies, and on the other side of which sit the Ministers. When, leaning across the table as he was about to lie down on it, and looking straight at Gladstone, he announced that he was prepared to support the Government, he conveyed, and, of course, meant to convey, the following impression: "I know that this is all your fault: I have personally the most utter contempt for you and all your colleagues; I could overwhelm you with shame, but for the sake of the country I will actually subdue my feelings and consent to endure you with this difficulty last."

Mr. Gladstone was singularly mild, even humble in his reply to Disraeli. He put on the weak air of one who rather likes to be rebuked, and believes it to be for his spiritual good. For myself I believe Gladstone to be a perfectly sincere and high-minded man, but his sinfully words of oratory are decidedly irritating. He was sweetly satisfied in his dealings with Disraeli, but he flamed up into anything but sanity when he came to talk of your Alexandria claims. It was really a splendid specimen of that ornate and gorgeous kind of eloquence which is peculiar to Gladstone. In the opening passage of the speech the House of Commons' mannerism and tone were painfully apparent. The sing-song cadence and the old-fashioned strain like that of a certain kind of preacher were unpleasant to hear. He dropped the doleful tone as he warmed in his speech. Years, however, have told heavily on his voice. It is no longer the wonderful organ, sweet, strong, clear, like a clarion that it used to be. All the fine notes have been worn away. He is sometimes husky, hoarse and even harsh. But the closing passage of his review of the Alabama question was full of genuine power and impressiveness, and they took the House immensely. Probably you will think the style of them overwrought and extravagant. But this was not the effect upon the ears of those who listened—even those who, like myself (and there are some such), regarded the speech as in the highest degree ill timed and mischievous. Viewed as a mere piece of declamation, it was wonderfully artistic, for Mr. Gladstone managed with rare skill to convey into it a manner as of one who was honestly restraining and repressing his emotion—as of one whose ardor would have led him to utter defiance, but whose self-control enabled him to be content with a protest. Strange as it may seem to you, this was the effect produced. The speech was made for the galleries, for the press, for the public, to anticipate the Tories, to show that the honor of England and the British lion and the Union-jack and all the rest of the properties are safe in the hands of a Liberal Ministry.

IRON DWELLING HOUSES.—An English firm is doing quite an extensive business supplying Austria with iron dwelling houses, manufactured in England and set up at short notice by English mechanics wherever the purchaser desires. The houses that are most in demand are those which have two, four or six rooms, the purchasers being generally the better class of Austrian artisans. The great want of the advanced workmen of the large Continental cities has long been for small, comfortable dwellings, and this want is being rapidly met by the introduction of the English houses of iron, which are not only warm, strong and reasonably elegant, but cheaper than can be built in Vienna, at least of any domestic material. This seems curious when there are taken into account all the charges incidental upon the cost of material, construction, carriage and Custom House dues, and it suggests that the enterprise might be made to pay in this country, especially in the immediate neighborhood of the iron and coal fields. The iron houses of America, with very few exceptions, large and costly, no attempts have been made to introduce dwellings for workmen similar to the above.

Baltimore Lock Hospital.
DR. JOHNSTON.
Physician of this celebrated institution, has discovered the most Certain, Speedy, Pleasant and Effective Remedy in the world for all

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.
Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affection of the Kidneys or Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Langour, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Excessive Trembling, Dimness of Sight, or Giddiness, Diseases of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of the Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—those terrible Disorders arising from Solitary Habits of Youth—secrete and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the songs of the Syrens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, &c.

YOUNG MEN.
Especially, who have become the Victims of Solitary Vice, and dreadful and destructive habits which annually sweep to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entered listening Senates with the hundreds of eloquent, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.
Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, beware of Physical Weakness (Loss of Procreative Power—Impotency), Nervous Excitability, Palpitation, Organic Weakness, Nervous Debility, or any other Disqualification, speedily relieved.
He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS.
Immediately cured and Full Vigor Restored. This distressing Affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgence. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the natural powers are lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by those prudent besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened. Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility and Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption Decay and Death.

A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS.
Relief in Six Hours! No Mercury!
Persons ruined by Ignorant, Trifling Pretenders and their Deadly Poison, should apply immediately.

DR. JOHNSTON
Member of the Royal College of Surgeons of London, Graduate of one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and a great part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears, weakness, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, beatitudes, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.
Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, and induce them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Mental Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Nervousness, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption.

YOUNG MEN
Who have injured themselves by a certain practice, already described, a habit frequently practiced of evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects of enjoyment of life by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in pernicious habits. Such persons must, before contemplating marriage, reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote conjugal happiness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of souls, is blighted with our own.

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE.
When a misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has sown the seeds of physical ruin, it too often happens that an ill-considered sense of shame or
